KNIGHTS TEMPLARS

PROCESSION IN THE QUAKER CITY.

Magnificent Pageantry-Commanderies From Al Over the Country in Line-Grand Singing by the Welsh and German Societies -Bicycles, Bows and Arrows.

Special dispatch to THE REPUBLICAN. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—"Festival Day" cere-monies were inaugurated by the parade of Knight Templars over the same route previous processions have covered, moving at 11 a, m. At the same hour there was a bleycle meet and re-view and archery contests in Fairmount Park, and the Welsh musical festival in Bicontennial Music Hall, where an audience of 10,000 assembled last night at the preliminary concert, 160 Welsh singers taking part. The crowd appeared almost undiminished as the Templar parade passed through the streets. The participants, comprising commanderles from New York, Washington, Providence, Pittsburg, Richmond, and other cities, numbered between 6,000 and 7,000. They pesented a superb appearance in their showy regula, and cliftled appiance everywhere by the precision with which they executed the various intricate evolutions of a Templar drill. Washington Commandery, No. 1; Potoinae, No. 3, of Georgetown; Columbia, No. 2, and De Molay, No. 4, ware in line and attracted special attention by their splendtd marching.

THE WEIGH CONCERT.

THE WEIGH CONCERT.

The Welsh concert this morning was attended by an audience of probably 10,000 people and they were risely rewarded for their presence, as such chorus singing has rarely been heard in this city or vieinity. A tibe conceinson of the concert, which was under the direction of Carl Gaertner, leader of orchestra, and G. W. Williams (government taspector of mines), leader of united choirs, there was an award of prizes, as follows: The Soot cash prize, for Haydn's "Hunting Song," was awarded to the Wyaming Valley Society; the $100 cash prize, for Schuberts "The Lord is My Shepherd," to the Calcot Society; the grand $1,200 prize, for Mendelssohn's "Ye Nations, Offer to the Lord," was awarded, amid overwhelming applause, to the Plymouth Choral Society, of Plymouth, Pa. The Solid sliver cup, offered by State Senator H. G. Jones, and a solid sliver sace, offered by G. W. Childs, went with the $1,200 and $800 awards respectively.

canals, went with the $1,250 and $800 awards respectively.

TRIS AFTERNOON THE GREMAN CHOIRS took the seats previously occupied by the Welsh singers, and the orchestra opened the exercises by the performance of that hard but beautiful overture to Obseron, which, like all of Weber's compositions, contains so many; difficult violin passages. "The Rattle Song" was sung. The orchestra performed the "Benediction" from the fourth act of the Huguenous. The young Mannerchor sang "The Battle of the Spirits," and "Sunrise" was given by the united singers. As the crowds left the ball the "Centennial March" was thundered by the orchestra.

THE KNOHTS TEMPLAR RECEPTION.

The Academy of Music was crowded to-night with a brilliant company, the guests of the Philadelphia commanderies. Knights Templar, on the occasion of the reception with which the Knights brought to a close their portion of the licentennial demonstrations. The academy stage was magnificently set to represent the hanging gardens of Borromeo, at isole Bella, Lake Magniore, Italy, consisting of an elevated terrace, with a colonade of arches above it, and profusely decorated with paims, tropical and flowering plants, cut flowers, &c., and ornamented with statuary. The decorations of Horicultural Hall, adjacent to the Academy, the two being connected by a covered pussage-way, were also elaborate. At 9 o'clock the visiting knights, having assembled in Horicultural Hall.

MARCHED TO THE STAGE
in the Academy, where they were formally weicomed to the city by E. Sir George S. Graham, district attorney of this city. Mr. Graham spoke of the ancient origin of templary and of its influence for good, especially in nealing the wounds lett by the war between the people of the North and South. He called upon Eir Knight Major David Macliver, thirtieth degree, who was sent to this city as the representative of Baldwin Preceptory, Bristol, England, for an address, in response Major Macliver spoke of the surprise and gratification he had felt at witnessing so imposing a public demonstration of Knight Templary. In England, he said, nothing of the kind is done, all the ceremonies and exercise being porformed within the temple. He spoke of the Bristol preceptory as the mother of modern Templary, and of the connection between the latter and the ancient form that sprung from the Charotric Crusaders, and, in conclusion, of the good feeling that he believed to be constantly broadening and intensitying between England and this country.

Wright, of St. Alban's Commandery, was then given, after which the grand march took place and the ball proceeded, E. Sir John C. Kelley, acting as earliarshal. Among the most distinguished of the guests, in addition to those above mentioned, were Governor Hoyt and staff, President E. C. Kright, and prominent members of the Bicentential Association, and military and civic officials. Among the Templar guests were General Charles Roome, of New York, grand generalissimo; John W. Simons, of New York, treasurer, and Theodore Parvin, of lowa City, grand recorder of the Grand Encampment of the United States, tegether with the grand officers of the States met at the Columbia avenue entrance to the East Park to participate in the grand pageant laid out for them by the fellow-riders of Philadelphia. The route was from the grounds in the immediate vicinity of the dairy to Fountain Green; thence to Rockland; thence skirting Edgely to the road near Strawberry Mansion; thence along the river road to the falls, and across the bridge to the East Park; kirting on down along the river, they then ascended the road leading up to the Gentlemon's Driving Park; theace to Belmont mansion, around which they turned, and passed along the road to George's Hill, where the parade was finished. The clubs were all in uniform, and presented a beautiful appearance. There were 489 men present, including delegations from Washington, Media, Fa.; Battmore, Trenton, N. J.; Smitheld, N. J., Boston, New York, Williamsport, Philadelphia, Germaniown, and elsewhere. This atternoon the entire party sat down to a sumptions repast at Belmont mansion, at which Mayor King presided. #### THE YELLOW FEVER.

Its Ravages in Pensacola and Elsewhere PENBACOLA, FLA., Oct. 25, 11:80,—Thirty-seven new cases of yellow, fever are reported to-day, but no deaths. This is the first day since the 17th of September without any mortality. The total cases to date are 2,133 and deaths 170. The rigorous economy of the board of health causes much murnaring as the pay of the man nurses, varying from $1 to $1.50 a day is below their demands and expectations; apprehensions of a continuance of the epidemic make economy imperative, and causes much uneasiness to the members of the board. The pay roll, chiefly on account of nurses amounts to about $1,000 a week, besides other expenses for beds, bedding, provisions, and sundry other items amounting to about $1,000 a week addational. It would be a great mistake to imagine that there is any diminution in the demands upon the generoity of the public. The Italian bark Persevenza, from Cape Town, arrived at the quarantine station yesterday. Mr. Saltmarsh, superintendent of the Persecola division of the L. and N. Rallway, who was ill at an early stage of the epidemic, returned to his post of duty yesterday.

New Obleans, Oct. 25.—The Times-Democrat Camargo, Mexico, special says; "Authentic reports from Mier gives the total cases of fever during the epidemic at 1,000 and deaths $2. The cases now under treatment number 450. The prominent clitzens having the fever are the following: Manuel E. Canales, Julius Wormser, Antonio F. Canales, and Dr. A. Edward Webb and daughter. The following have died: Mrs. M. G. Canales, Francisco De Garza, and Emilio De Garza. There have been 150 deaths at Carmago since the disease appeared."

Brownsville, Texas, Oct. 25.—Yesterday a few cases of yellium fever developed here. Colonei Lyster, of the Nineteenth Infantry, is said to be sick with fever. At Camp Smith thirty men are undergoing thorough disinfection. The weather is hot. new cases of yellow fever are reported to-day, but no deaths. This is the first day since the 17th of

A FRENCH CONSPIRACY.

Staunch Supporters in All the Towns Unensiness in Paris.

Paris, Oct. 26.—Le Paris publishes the details of the anarchist conspiracy. They show that it is composed of a small number of staunch supporters in all the towns and manufacturing yillages of France. The members are mostly young men, who distribute revolutionary papers. Each group has a districtive name. A letter which was received by authorities recommends that the groups should pretend to be trades' unions. All the groups 2m a department form a leleration, some having a socret symbol, and these federations are the link between the groups and the central committee. Several of the persons arrested on Saturday last belong to federations. The central committee is composed of a delegate from each of the federations. It meets monthly at Geneva. Letters in Prince Krapotkine's handwriting show him to be a member of the conspiracy. The disturbances in August at Montecau-les-Mines were not ordered, as the committee disapproved them as premature. They were due to the elericalism of the manager of a mine. The dynamic found by the authorities was mannfactured at St. Sanveur, Switzerland. A succession of fires at Amiems has produced great uneasiness. The action of the government in suspending the trials of the persons arrested in connection with the rioting at Montreau-les-Mines is much criticised, but is taken as a resolution not to allow the miscreanism of the have been warned that their offices will be blown up.

It is stated that the members of the anarchist federations in Paris and its subarbs alone number 1,229. The syndic of Lyons has received a letter, in which a threat is made to blow up the Bourse in that city.

Blanche Douglass Tells Her Mory. New York, Oct. 26.—In the examination of Edward Hanley, Thomas Gonivan, and William Platt, charged with attempting to blackmail Wal-ter Malley on the letters written to Blanche Doug-lass, the latter testified that she had lived with lass, the latter testified that she had lived with Hanley as his wife, and had been intimate with a lerge number of men. She had borne the names of Blanche Douglass, Annie Hines, and Annie Maxwell, the latter name being given her by Walter Malley. Her true name was Annie Zimmerman. Haubey told her he had taken the letters and intended to get money on them. One night recently in a beer garden in Houston street, when he refused to give them back to her, she broke three beer glasses over his head. She lived, she said, on money sent to her by Malley—some $25 or $39 per week. In writing to him she always addressed him as "Mr. Wall Maxwell." She denied that she ever told Hanley that she, Walter, and his brother had dosed Jennie Cramer or that she had put stuff given her by the Malleys into wine which the unfortunate girl drank. While giving this portion of her testimony the girl laughed outright in derision of the idea which she termed one of Hanley's "made-up games."

Garvin, said to be from the State of Georgia, and only three days in the city from the South, where he was a locomotive engineer. The tragedy was the result of a drunken quarred in the bar of the hotel, during which McDonald accused Garvin of being a thief. The latter retorted that he was a liar, when the former struck Garvin, whereupon Garvin drew a revolver and shot his assailant dead. The police took the murderer into custody at once, and lodged him in juit.

The Jenunctic Story.

Very little of general interest was developed Thursday in the testimony of Lieutenant Danen-Rower, which was continued before the Jeannette court of Inquiry. When the parties left Bennett Island August 6, 1880, De Loug ordered Melville to command the whaleboat, with Danenhower as passenger and Dr. Ambier from the whaleboat to the first cutter. August 7 the provision sledges were abandoned and the messes rearranged. August 5 witness asked De Long to put him on duty, but was refused as long as he was on the sick list. August 9 all the dogs escaped except two. The rest of the session was a detail of each day's journey, and devoid of general interest.

all well contested and several surprises being the result. In fact, the very first event was an unex-pecied result, for though it was known that Hari-ford had done good service during the summer, yet it was said that while at Brighton Beach he yet it was said that while at Brighton Beach he had ran a nall in his hoof, which his owner feared would permanently disable him. Mr. M. C. Daly, his former owner, sold him to McLoughlin, who rede him on Wednesday, for $1,500. After the rice Taurstay, and McLoughlin had won $1,100 on the horse, Daly said he was sorry he sold him. Although the pool-selling was quite active, they did not pay heavy, the largest amount being that on Buster, which paid $72.45.

Busier, which paid $72.45.

THE FEMINING INTEREST in the races increases daily, and the dear creatures are as eager in watching the course as are the men who have laid their money on the fivers. As has already been stated, some of the ladies make ventures in the pools by proxy, but the majority of womankind are of an economical turn of mind and rather healtate to put out a five dollar bill; they would freely make a little bet of fifty cents, but five dollars is a suggerer. Whether the time will come when there will be separate pool stands for the ladies at the various tracks is a question which only time can determine. Among the crowds on the grand stand and the quarter-stretch.
